How to Write a Strong Letter of Recommendation

MathRelaxing LOR Pack · practical guide

What top Etsy packs get right (and we include)

- Editable Word templates (US Letter) — the format buyers expect
- A filled sample so writers see tone and length
- Multiple situations: job, academic, teacher, character, scholarship, peer
- Clear placeholders in [brackets]

Structure that works

1. Open with relationship + duration — how you know the person.
2. One or two concrete stories with outcomes — metrics beat adjectives.
3. Character / collaboration — how they work with others.
4. Clear endorsement — "I recommend without reservation."
5. Offer contact — invite follow-up.

Length & tone

Aim for three-quarters to one page. Warm but specific. Avoid vague praise ("hard worker," "team player") unless you prove it with an example.

Which template to use

- Job / Employee — managers recommending reports for a new role
- Academic / Grad school — faculty or research advisors
- Teacher → Student — high school / college instructors
- Character / Personal — housing, personal opportunities (not legal advice)
- Scholarship — awards and foundations
- Coworker / Peer — lateral recommendations

Important

These are writing aids, not legal documents. For court, immigration, or formal legal references, consult appropriate counsel. Do not invent credentials or experiences.

© MathRelaxing. For personal use only. Not for redistribution or resale.